LOGLINE

This collage of images, repetitions, and memories, built through the intervention of the Colombian news archive during the 80s and 90s; It reconstructs a story linked to a generation, a generation that grew by normalizing violence through those same images.

SYNOPSIS

BREAKING NEWS. Blood is dripping off of the stage where politicians speak. Violent images are engraved in my memory. Nuestra Película is a revisit of those to draw a generation of images and apathy. This collage of images, repetitions, and memories, built through the intervention of the Colombian news archive during the 80s and 90s, is, at the same time a personal journey of my childhood in the middle of these memories; It reconstructs a story linked to a generation, a generation that grew by normalizing violence through those same images.

DIRECTOR

Diana Bustamante, filmmaker and programmer, studied cinema and fine arts at the National University of Colombia. As a producer, she has been known for supporting authors with or without experience, whose vision and voice explore new perspectives. She has produced films like Ciro Guerra's "Journeys of the Wind", Cannes 2009; and "La Tierra y la Sombra" by Cesar Acevedo, Cannes Golden Camera 2015, among others 12 titles. In 2021 she produces the film MEMORY by the Thai director Apichatpong Weerasethakul, Cannes 2021 Official Competition, Jury Prize.

From 2014 to 2018, she was the artistic director and main programmer of the Cartagena International Film Festival (FICCI). As a curator she has collaborated with the Bogotá District Cinematheque, the French Film Festival in Colombia and the Goethe Institute, Biarritz film festival, among others. Her first middle length documentary "Oposición Fusión" was at MIDBO (Muestra Internacional de cine documental de Bogotá) in 2009. On 2020 she got the creative grant from the Ministry of Culture to create a documentary piece based on archives, with the project "El Leon". "Nuestra Película", is her first feature documentary, supported by the Colombian Film fund and the Cinema Fund from Aquitaine Region in France.
