SYNOPSIS

Rachel is a young woman living with her Nigerien uncle and his American wife. When her aunt has had enough of Rachel's free-spirited lifestyle she kicks her out of the house.

Rachel's quiet-spoken uncle is given little say on the matter and she is left to figure things out on her own.

It's not long before she runs into Skeeter, a washed-up movie star whose life, she finds out, is surprisingly similar to hers.

Together, they decide to "play a part" in hopes of both getting what they need.

DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

"I moved to LA when I was 19 with nothing in my pocket but a filmmaker's dream of shifting the perspective about minority groups.

I had still yet to embark on my journey, however, nor have an inkling how full of ups and downs it would be.

I hope to highlight empowered characters of all backgrounds as well as contrasting the wealth between them and continue to develop films in my homeland of Niger.

This short film is semi-autobiographical;

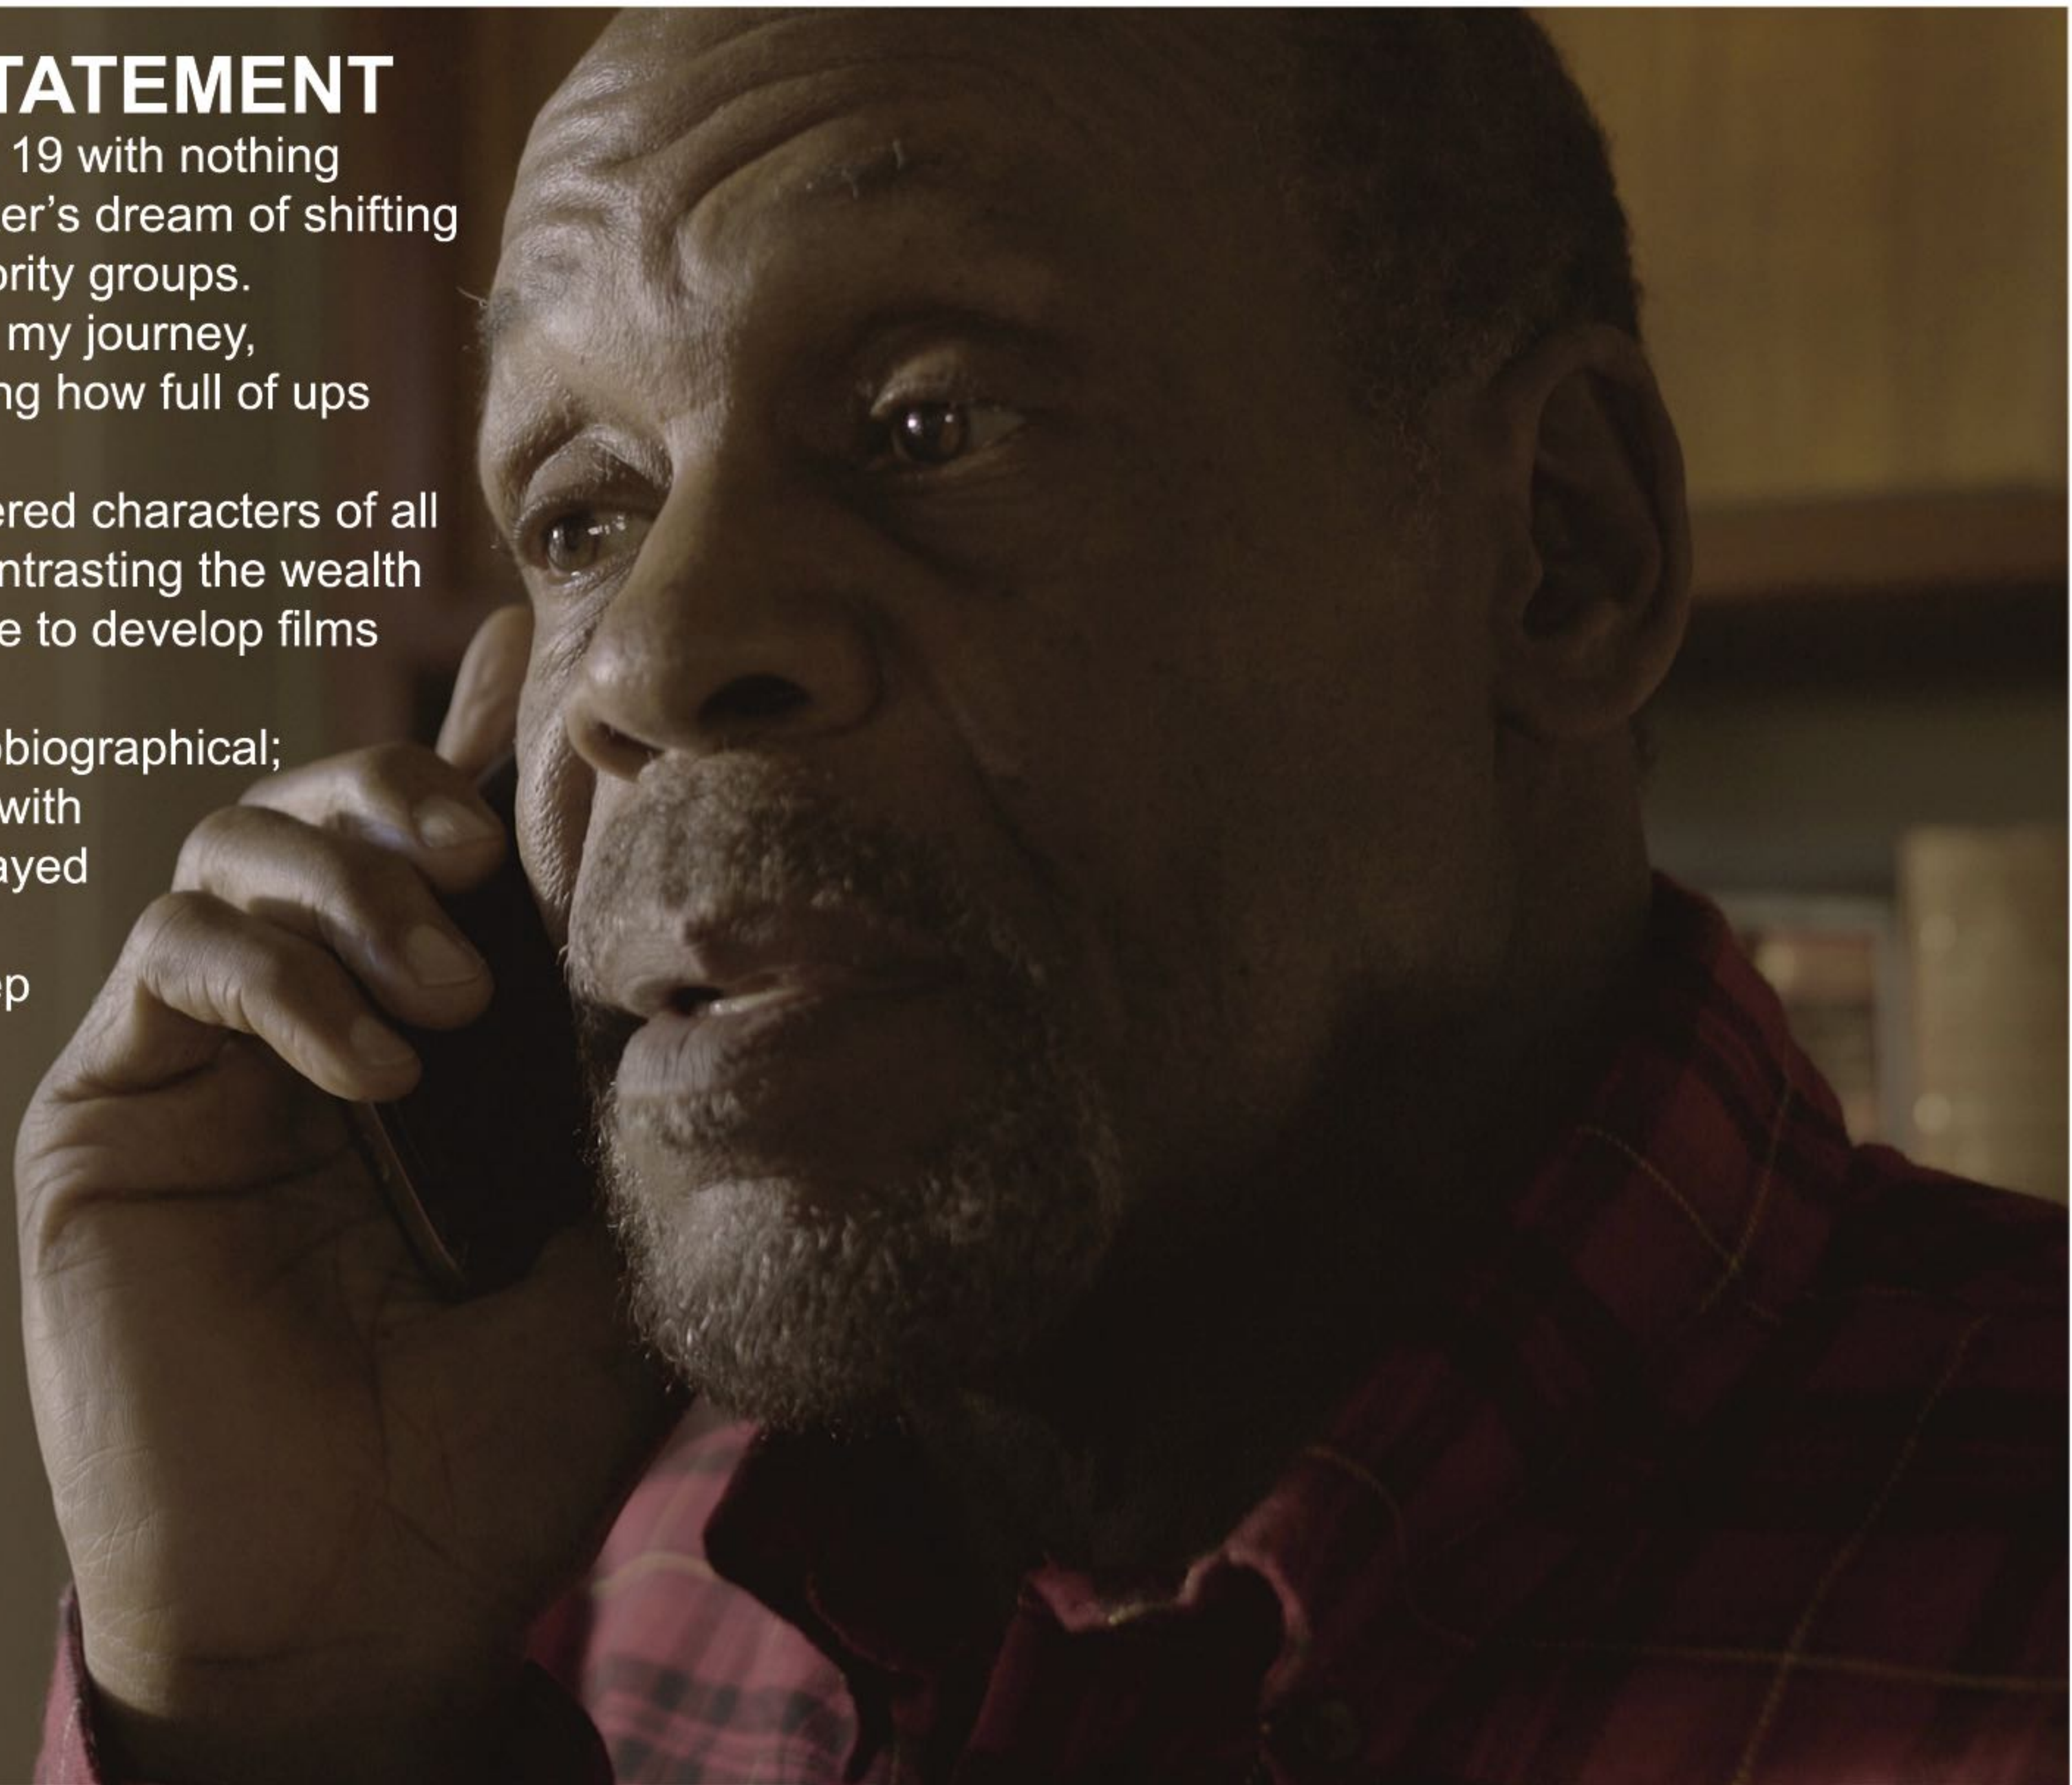

My being in Love at age 7 with cousin Skeeter's Bobby played by Robert Ri'chard, is true.

My having nowhere to sleep but my car is true... but it only made me stronger, more determined. I had "all the disadvantages to succeed".

We have the proof

- I made a film in which I'm proud and honored to have directed

Danny Glover amidst a multi-ethnic cast."

DIRECTOR'S BIO

Magaajyia Silberfeld is an actress and filmmaker from France, Poland and Niger. At the age of 18 she directed her first short film *Me There and then produced and co-directed Ride or Die starring Piper de Palma and Roxane Depardieu.

She also produced the short After school starring Ruby Modine, which recently won the Rhode Island Directorial Award.

After her theatre training at the Conservatoire de Paris and completing a philosophy BA at the Sorbonne University, Magaajyia attended the Lee Strasberg institute in Los Angeles and the Playhouse West Repertory Theatre School and made her acting debut in Geraldine Bajard's The Edge.

She is now promoting her feature film debut Zin'naariya! The Wedding Ring directed by Rahmatou Keita while attending an online Masters of English Studies at Nanterre University. Upcoming projects include the feature of Vagabonds as well as a documentary she's now producing with Aïssa Maïga.
